

middlesex

MEDIATION

Knowledge

Extensive, current expertise resolving business disputes

Experience

Recognized lawyers with exceptional reputations

Judgment

Highest professional standards

Full ADR Services including Technology-Focused Disputes

Middlesex Mediation provides mediators and arbitrators experienced with settling all types of complex litigation and resolving disputes including intellectual property and technology-centric matters such as infringement, trade secret theft, ownership disputes, licensing, software defect, breach of contract, valuation and others.

Middlesex Mediation's panel of neutrals enables it to bring integrated, expert skill to ADR assignments regardless of complexity or technology.

The Middlesex Mediation neutral panel members are:

Russell J. Barron is an IP trial lawyer with over 40 years of experience in a range of technologies. He was a founding partner of the IP practice of Foley & Lardner and has advised private equity funds in valuation, patent enforceability and litigation strategy. He recently retired as a C-suite executive at Velico Medical, Inc., a clinical-stage medical device company. He is a director of Extend Biosciences Inc., a clinical-stage pharmaceutical company.

T. Christopher Donnelly of Boston's Donnelly, Conroy & Gelhaar, LLP is a highly experienced trial lawyer with wide intellectual property experience in trying patent infringement and copyright cases as well as M&A, professional liability, shareholder and employment disputes.

Karen F. Green was the first female USDA in Massachusetts, she is a retired Justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court and formerly an executive committee member at WilmerHale and head of the litigation department at Hale and Dorr. Her wide litigation experience includes patent cases.

Michelle R. Peirce of Boston's Hinckley Allen & Snyder represents clients in high stakes criminal, civil and enforcement litigation. Her 35 years of experience has included technology intensive intellectual property litigation, product liability and toxic tort cases as well as white-collar fraud, labor and employment and securities matters. She chairs her firm's White Collar and Government Enforcement Group.

Vincent Pisegna has tried numerous commercial cases, including intellectual property, health care, and other technology cases. He was the Chair of the Massachusetts Board of Bar Overseers (BBO). He is a widely published writer on legal topics.

Joseph V. Cavanagh of Providence, Rhode Island's Blish & Cavanagh has litigated technology-focused matters including patent infringement, products liability, and medical malpractice cases as well as antitrust, libel, sexual harassment and employment matters. He is the managing partner of his firm.

John D. Hanify is a former Assistant U.S. Attorney for the District of Massachusetts and a retired partner at Jones Day, where he served as head of its Boston litigation practice.

Alan D. Rose is the managing partner of Boston's Rose Law Partners LLP. A former ADA he has tried numerous civil and white-collar criminal cases and is expert in education, corporate fraud and securities law. He has been Chair of the Massachusetts Board of Bar Overseers, the First Circuit Rules Advisory Committee and other senior bar roles.

William G. Meserve, headed the litigation group of Ropes & Gray and actively tried a wide range of lawsuits over 35 years. He was a staff counsel of the US Senate Committee on Commerce and a long-time trustee of Tufts University, Tufts Medical Center and other civic organizations.

-
-

Middlesex Mediation is a business dispute resolution firm based in Boston, MA.

For further information see www. Middlesexmediation.com or email jhanify@middlesexm.com

###